Art on Center Street will be take place on August 24, 2013, and be presented by the Berkeley Art Museum and Pacific Film Archive and the Downtown Berkeley Association. This exciting day-long event will introduce BAM/PFA to its new community in Downtown Berkeley as it prepares for its move in early 2016. This event will also introduce BAM/PFA's audiences to the diverse cultural attractions in the Downtown area. During the day, the festival will focus on art-making, music, and other complementary activities involving local community arts organizations. In the evening, the festival will transition to a film program curated by BAM/PFA.	Downtown Berkeley Association	Berkeley Art Museum and Pacific Film Archive	Arts and Culture (Community Service)	$ 5,000.00
Behind the Scenes: Growing Arts Professionals seeks to build capacity at non-profit arts organizations throughout Berkeley, and to provide students with professional development in arts-related careers. This program will recruit and train undergraduates to serve as interns in Berkeley arts organizations for eight hours per week during the academic year. Professional skill-building in marketing and development will be provided to the interns and to staff in the participating organizations. Interns, along with staff and board members from all Berkeley Cultural Trust member organizations (regardless if they have interns), will attend seminars on the role of the arts in civic life featuring nationally recognized leaders in the field.	Berkeley Cultural Trust	Cal Corps, Arts Research Center	Arts and Culture (Community Service)	$ 20,000.00
Berkeley Advancing in Mathematics (AiM) is a pilot program that will bring UC Berkeley undergraduates who have math education experience into elementary schools as tutors and as classroom trainees providing teacher support.	Berkeley Unified School District, Berkeley Arts Magnet School, Cragmont Elementary School, Malcolm X Elementary School, Thousand Oaks Elementary School, Washington Elementary School	Cal Teach	Education (Community Service)	$ 34,000.00
The Berkeley Student Leaders Community Collaboration seeks to develop a yearlong leadership program comprised of trainings for BCC and UCB students and retreats for BHS students. The trainings for college students include exploring public service, leadership, and college and trainings on everything from communication skills to event planning. The college students will offer BHS retreats with the goals of: increasing interest in attending college; increasing volunteering; developing leadership skills. Mentors will be assigned to BHS students for further advising.	Institute for Civic and Community Engagement, Berkeley City College, Berkeley City College Service Community, Berkeley High Leadership Program	Cal Corps	Education (Community Service)	$ 5,000.00

The BUSD Garden Education Collaborative is a multi-pronged initiative designed to connect the BUSD's in-school and outdoor learning environments. Funding from the CCPF will assist the GEC in executing the planning, green space infrastructure, teacher training, and curriculum needed to deliver integrated, high-impact garden education to students throughout the Berkeley Unified School District. The BUSD Garden Education Collaborative will serve 9,400 students in all neighborhoods in Berkeley who attend the BUSD's 11 public elementary schools, three middle schools, one comprehensive high school, and an alternative high school. In addition, the project will launch garden infrastructure and curriculum pilots in 2013-14 at three elementary schools serving the Northwest and Central school zones, which represent a diverse cross section of residents and serve two-thirds of Berkeley's families and neighborhoods.	Berkeley Unified School District Garden and Cooking Program, Berkeley LEARNS After School Program, Bay Area Community Resources, Bay Tree Design, The Edible Schoolyard Project	UC Botanical Gardens, Atkins Center for Weight and Health	Education (Community Service and Neighborhood Improvement)	$ 23,000.00
Conflict Busters is an innovative program focused on restorative practices in elementary schools. Funding will help coordinate restorative practices at local schools, including running our Conflict Busters program, which teaches students to de-escalate and resolve the conflicts of their peers. The program will also create opportunities for the Berkeley community to learn more about restorative practices and how they interrupt the school-to-prison pipeline through our 12-week Restorative Practices in Schools certification course and an on-campus conference.	SEEDS Community Resolution Center, Rosa Parks Elementary School	Restorative Justice Center	Education (Community Service)	$ 25,000.00
Early Childhood Science: Building the Future will empower preschool teachers working with the lowest income children in Berkeley to implement a hands-on inquiry approach to teaching science. This project will strengthen teacher's ability to impart science education, expose children to enhanced science integrated curriculum and help parents understand the importance of science-based learning. Project activities will help close the school-readiness gap in Berkeley and inspire life-long learners with skills that are recognized as important for success in life: critical thinking, problem solving and creativity.	YMCA of the Central Bay Area: Early Childhood Services (Head Start)	Lawrence Hall of Science School &amp; Family Programs	Education (Community Service)	$ 40,000.00
Health Black Families in Berkeley aims to improve health and well-being of Berkeley African-American families by (1) creating a non-profit community organization devoted to the elimination racial and ethnic disparities in Berkeley, (2) implementation of forums to promote community engagement; and (3) implementing a big sister program, "Sister-to-Sister" to plan for success for 25 eligible families. The expected outcomes include: (1) attaining 501c3 status; (2) increased knowledge among Berkeley residents about social disparities affecting low-income African-Americans; and 3) increased knowledge and family capacity for health/development during early childhood among 25 eligible families.	Black Infant Health Community Advisory Board, City of Berkeley: Division of Public Health, Sisters Together Empowering Peers	School of Public Health: Community Health and Human Development, Center for Public Health Practice	Education (Community Service)	$ 10,000.00

Math Rules is an innovative approach to math proficiency that builds upon key research and web-based resources. It focuses on African American and Latino students who have scored below basic on the California State Test (CST). Instituted at REALM High School, which has 75% Latino and African American students from low-income families, it incorporates intensive summer math camps and extended, differentiated instruction during the school year. By utilizing CAL graduate students to work with credentialed math teachers, it significantly lowers contact ratios to 12:1 in guiding focal students to test at proficient by the end of the academic year.	Level Playing Field Institute, REALM Charter School	Graduate School of Education	Education (Community Service)	$ 20,000.00
Print Public is a new creative placemaking project partnering UC Berkeley's College of Environmental Design: Department of City &amp; Regional Planning, and UC Transportation Center, Kala Art Institute, and local businesses to create art installations, pop-up projects, print kiosks, and innovative acts of culture to activate San Pablo Avenue in West Berkeley. We will launch a two-year pilot project creating an arts-integrated approach to urban planning and community activation.	Kala Art Institute	UC Transportation Center	Arts and Culture (Neighborhood Improvement)	$ 40,000.00
Ready Neighborhoods West Berkeley will leverage and focus resources of the American Red Cross, the University of California, Berkeley and the City of Berkeley to provide the West Berkeley community with the training, resources and networks it needs to prepare for, help prevent, respond to and recover from emergencies and disasters. Funding will bring (a) Berkeley student interns; (b) training materials/programs; and (c) emergency supplies to the community. Preparing individuals to care for themselves, their loved ones and their neighbors reduces demands on crucial emergency services during disasters and empowers local leaders to help their community respond and recover more quickly.	American Red Cross Bay Area, Berkeley Fire Office of Emergency Services	Cal Corps, American Red Cross @ Cal, UC Berkeley Office of Emergency Management	Community Safety (Community Service)	$ 30,000.00
